

Restrictions Against the Unvaccinated

Excerpt from the 784th contact of Tuesday, 16th of November 2021

Billy At least, this is not part of the human being's thinking – if anything is thought about at all and if everything is not simply passed off superficially, which is actually common practice for the so-called everyday Earthling. This brings me straight to that which actually moves the world, namely the rampantly spreading corona disease. Within your circle, you have obviously talked about what will happen with regard to what is now being practised by Austria towards the unvaccinated, that those in government have imposed a lockdown on their people, which I personally find an unparalleled disgrace.

Ptaah The leaders of other states will 'debate' this, if one can speak of debating at all. Fundamentally, none of this actually exists, because – as you always say when we discuss something privately – the national leaders act completely headlessly, because something is being decided thoughtlessly-inconsiderately and, accordingly, also unrightful restrictive action is being taken and something is being decreed and forcefully imposed on the people that is more harmful than useful and, in addition, divides society by secretly treating the unvaccinated like the vermin of the people, as was quite usual during the NAZI era. The freedom of the human being is thereby curtailed and he/she is inevitably driven to defend himself/herself against this. Furthermore, such a restrictive decree and action by the state leadership brings forth enmity among the population, because one grouping becomes fractious, that is to say, indignant and subversive against the other. The whole thing thus evokes hostile impulsations in the human being, which can ultimately result in riots and even in a civil war among the population. This is not being considered by the national leaders, any more than the further consequences that result from their wrong decrees, actions and measures.

The national leaders are not capable of directing and doing the right thing – nor are their advisors – and they actually are supposed to be the leaders who should be trusted by the people, just as the population of a state should be 'led' according to them, which, however, is not the case in reality, because the so-called leaders are incapable of their task. On that point, the national leaders themselves are therefore absolutely incapable of their office, consequently they are only able to bring up just enough 'capability to hold public office' in order to be able to carry out what is being breathed into them 'advisingly' by their counsellors who in reality conduct and direct them.

Everything with regard to what should be done to truly put a stop to the rampantly spreading corona disease, is criminally neglected by the national leaders to the disadvantage of the populations, and exactly the opposite of that which should be done and would bring success is done, that is to say, decreed and directed. As a result of this, the unvaccinated – who make up about 1/3 of the total population in Europe – are blamed of being the culprits in the newly rampant wave, that is to say, for the new rampant infections of the corona virus, although this does not correspond to the truth. The truth namely is such that those who are responsible for the countries have suspended the safety rules and have ordered that the necessary wearing of respiratory protection masks and keeping of distance from the Earth's fellow human beings is no longer required. This is despite the fact that foresight has indicated and foretold that this time it will and must happen as a result of the inability of the national leaders, that through their wrong ordering, decreeing and acting, everything will go worse than it first did when the rampantly spreading corona disease was first recognised and then began to spread towards the end of 2019. Already at that time the wrong things were ordered and decreed for the peoples by the national leaders worldwide, and were handled and carried out feebly, whereby the rampantly spreading disease could spread as a pandemic across the Earth among the Earth humanity and make them weary of the lockdown.

Billy And now, in their incapability to govern, they are doing the wrong thing again, because those in government, in their low intelligentum, that is to say, in their incapability of thinking, are unable to recognise what they are doing wrong with regard to their confused and illogical orders, decrees and perception of things which result from all their blindness.

Ptaah Now their vindication comes in the form of holding all the unvaccinated responsible for their own failures and trying to make them appear unreasonable as the culprits in the re-emergence of the masses of infections and the ever-increasing number of deaths from the rampantly spreading corona disease.

Billy Yes, they will thus influence the opinions of all the so-called recovered and vaccinated ones – who in reality can be infected again and again and have an infectious effect on their fellow human beings, because as a rule the vaccine is not yet much good for immunisation – and carry them along in such a form that they will snub the unvaccinated ones. This is just the case for as long as they do not allow themselves to be 'vaccinated' with the immature stuff that is unrightfully called vaccine. It is already being said on television that many unvaccinated ones are now getting vaccinated after all.

Ptaah We have already checked this today and have ascertained that some of the less stalwart already feel impelled to submit to the measures of vaccination with the doubtful substances due to the official wrong orders, but there are a lot fewer of them than is claimed. Most of the vaccinations that the unvaccinated submit to do indeed not correspond to such, because truthly there are more repetitions or boosters of already preceding vaccinations taking place that are ineffective after only a short time.

Billy So this is practically a shot in the water, because, on the one hand, the human beings of the Earth are deceived and duped by false propaganda, and, on the other hand, the not very stalwart are vaccinated with the immature vaccines, guided into the unreal and made to believe that they are now protected from infection, even though this is not the case, as is proved in practice. The fact that they are nevertheless afflicted by the corona virus and fall ill from it and can spread the rampantly spreading disease contagiously is kept secret from them. Those in government and their fellow liars, who can be found among many epidemiologists, virologists, medical doctors and other vaccination advocates, are trying to infatuate and terrify the confusingly led earthlings through their lies and false information, so that they will have themselves vaccinated with the vaccine which is in many cases inadequate and possibly even life-endangering or health-damaging.

Ptaah As you always say, when it comes to achieving something: That is the whole point of the exercise; in this case, therefore, that through false reports and lies the unvaccinated are being terrified and thrown into doubt through untruths and kept away from the effective truth and thus from the reality of the whole, by blaming the unvaccinated for everything and placing special emphasis on that.

Billy However, the whole thing unsettles the human beings to such an extent that they do not know and, moreover, have doubts about what is right and what is wrong. The consequence of this is clear and obvious in that many Earthlings do not know what to do – that is, whether to get vaccinated or not. Unfortunately, however, they cannot and must not be given advice on this, for every human being must let his/her very own intellect and his/her own rationality prevail and must decide entirely for himself/herself what he/she wants to do or not do, what he/she can allow himself/herself and take responsibility for regarding his/her health and what not.

Ptaah That is right, because no one has the right – and that includes the national leaders and their directives and decrees – to disregard the personal will and the decisions of every human being on Earth against his/her own decision. Exceptions may only be made for people who are not in control of their consciousness and therefore not capable of making their own decisions, that is to say, who are not able to decide by means of their intellect and rationality about the prosperity and adversity of their own person and that of their fellow human beings on Earth.

What is rightful for the national leaders is merely to issue a decree, that is to say, a rationality-bearing instruction, that is to say, an absolute decree on how the human beings on Earth will be able to protect themselves and the next fellow human beings on Earth in the best possible form. In the case of an epidemic or a pandemic, as is currently rampant on Earth, this right is given in such a form that every single individual of the population must have the self-recognised obligation to self-protection and to the protection of the next fellow human beings on Earth, and he/she must be obliged by a state direction, that is to say, a state ordinance, to wear a suitable and worthy respiratory protection mask when dealing with other persons – which for human beings on Earth must correspond to the quality of FFP2 according to earthly standards – and to keep the appropriate and absolutely necessary distance to the next fellow human being on Earth. The issuing of such a direction, that is to say, decree, by the national leaders to the population, is absolutely acceptable and rightful, and, in addition to that, it is also liberal as well as social and democratic, which is of particular value to the human being on Earth.

Rightly considered and thought about – which unfortunately is lacking among the earthly national leaders, as we repeatedly observe – must lead to the cognition that directing and decreeing lockdowns against the unvaccinated is rightfully inadmissible, moreover coercive, freedom-depriving and discriminating, as well as contrary to the freedom of self-determination. Consequently, this also applies to a therewith connected and demanded vaccination, which entitles that this and that may be done, which however is not the case if no vaccination is given and therefore a state of unvaccination exists. This, however, is already absolute coercion, false imprisonment, discrimination and dictatorship in the worst form, which must never be brought forth and allowed to become reality in a democratic state.

Billy But which, nevertheless, is irresponsibly practised in Austria as of today and will certainly soon be imitated in Germany, and so forth, by those in government, because they do not know what actually has to be done either, namely the decree of the general wearing of respiratory protection masks and keeping one's distance from fellow human beings. In Switzerland, too, we unfortunately have incapable ones in government who are already contemplating the dictatorial unvaccinated-system of the Austrian government instead of letting intellect and rationality prevail.

Ptaah If these are lacking, however, as is the case with national leaders, namely with regard to the leadership of the population, then ...

Billy ... it is unfortunately hopeless.

Ptaah Well, this is not what I wanted to say, but rather that, unfortunately, nothing can then be regulated properly and the people have to suffer under this dictatorially as a result.

Billy Of course, that is rightly said.

Ptaah Yes, but it has to be said that I cannot come to terms in solidarity with that which is now enforced with regard to the unvaccinated, at least in Austria. The whole thing is against any right of personal decision of the human being on Earth. For my part, I oppose such behaviour, because it contravenes the free and personal decision and opinion of each individual person, their right and every democratic order and freedom. This is a sheer coercion of mandatory vaccination, because only through this can certain freedoms be exercised. Every human being on Earth must, under all circumstances, be given free will and the decision with regard to his/her personality as to whether or not he/she wants to be vaccinated.

The only correct decision would be the directive and ordinance by the national leaders, that a directive and an ordinance on the mandatory wearing of a respiratory protection mask of the quality FFP2 and the appropriate keeping of distance to the next fellow human being on Earth is prescribed, so to speak, in order to guarantee the protection of his/her health as well as the health of the next human being of Earth. It should be possible to implement this by using some intellect and rationality, which the truly incapable national leaders of the Earth should still be capable of to such an extent that they are able to understand the good advice given to them regarding what they are supposed to do rightfully. Thereto, I have the following to advise, namely:

1. That generally respiratory masks of the quality FFP2 must be worn equally by every human being of Earth – no matter whether vaccinated, recovered or unvaccinated – when dealing with those human beings of Earth who do not belong to the direct and healthy sphere of life and when one does not know whether or not they have contracted a corona infection.
2. That regardless of wearing a respiratory protection mask of the quality FFP2, the necessary distance from one human being of Earth to the next one must be maintained, which, as a rule, must be 150 cm to 200 cm or more, depending on the case. If there is a certain degree of security that one or more persons are not infected, the safety distance from one human being to another may be smaller.
3. In direct or close contact with fellow human beings who do not belong to one's direct sphere of life and do belong to the circle of those who are sure to be free from the corona virus, only a respiratory protection mask of the quality FFP2 should be worn and used.
4. That it has to be the rule and it must be observed that no direct bodily contact takes place, such as handshakes, i.e., hand greetings, kissing and embracing and so forth.
5. That the necessary hygienic measures – such as the disinfection of hands – are observed and that all other necessary hygiene measures must be maintained.
6. That all air traffic and all traffic by car, bus and so forth, by rail and by ship for holiday purposes must be forbidden, as also any holidays in foreign places and in foreign, that is to say, other countries and so forth.
7. Public means of transport and private means of passenger transportation may only be used by several persons at the same time if the necessary FFP2 respiratory protection masks are worn and a considerable safety distance – depending on the vehicle, that is to say, means of carriage – is kept.
8. Respiratory protection masks of only FFP1 value protect insufficiently against infections and should only be worn when walking on streets and paths where there is sufficient distance to other persons; never should they be used in the area of direct contact with other fellow human beings.

9. The wearing of medical masks should be reserved for persons who have to perform corresponding activities, and so forth.

That which concerns the coercion now being applied to the unvaccinated by the national leaders, is in itself an irresponsible-criminal mode of ordinance that is being initiated inconsiderately. It bears witness to the state-leadership-incapability of the national leaders, to their culpability towards the Earth humanity, which becomes more and more unmeasurable the longer it goes on, through which the rampantly spreading disease can continue to infectiously spread, because the right thing is not done. This is also the case with regard to the fact that the whole misbehaviour of the national leaders in this respect has resulted in the rampantly spreading corona disease being able to spread across all the states of the Earth and to the human beings of the Earth through the decision-making and ordinance-issuing culpability of those responsible for the countries. This in such a form that the same wrong behaviour spreads to all countries. In addition to this, those who are responsible for the countries uncontrollably rely on the vaccine manufacturers, who throw their vaccines onto the market largely untested and 'earn' thousands of millions with them in an unrightful form – and, moreover, in the process are destroying the lives of human beings of Earth.

1. All the vaccines against the corona virus developed and made use of by companies and corporations have so far been insufficiently tested and tried out for the various requirements of the different physical characteristics, as a result of which the vaccinations are truly life-endangering for a certain percentage of human beings of Earth and are exactly the opposite in their effect to what they are supposed to bring about. Yes, in some cases they indeed bring forth side-effects and suffering as well as death.
2. The vaccines are therefore partly life-endangering for human beings of Earth who do not correspond to the requirements of the chemical substances from which the vaccines are made and consequently are not compatible with the necessary physical conditions required. The vaccine opponents of both genders, however, know, assume or find out about this through some channels, consequently the state misleadership campaign of the national leaders against the unvaccinated is now being unleashed.

This is actually all I want to say about it, and moreover, it is futile to go on talking about these factors and the low intelligentum of the earthly wannabe national leaders and their wrong doing and acting, for they do not follow any advice and do not do what should be done. Consequently, I don't want to be confronted with it in the future anymore, unless it is about new cognitions that really need to be discussed. ...
